SOLID CORE CONSTRUCTION

Why MDF?

Koch MDF doors feature a robust construction with an engineered core stile and rail, utilizing high-density fiberboard (HDF) veneers for faces and solid medium-density fiberboard (MDF) for panels. MDF is an engineered wood product, environmentally friendly due to its recycled wood fiber composition bonded with resin under high heat and pressure. These doors provide a consistent, grain free ideal for painting and exhibit resilience against temperature and humidity variations. In addition to their structural integrity, Koch MDF doors offer a cost-effective and eco-friendly alternative to solid wood doors for painted applications.

Koch MDF Doors are primed with a water based primer and are available in all interior door styles
